SENIORS

CLASS OF '68

Mr. Fred Vero

What makes a class advisor great? Many things. Among them are a fair amount of gameness, combined with an element of sensible restraint. The desire to do things well. But over all, the willingness to turn over the handling of the class to the class itself. We owe our deepest thanks to Mr. Fred Vero, for displaying these traits with the Class of '68.

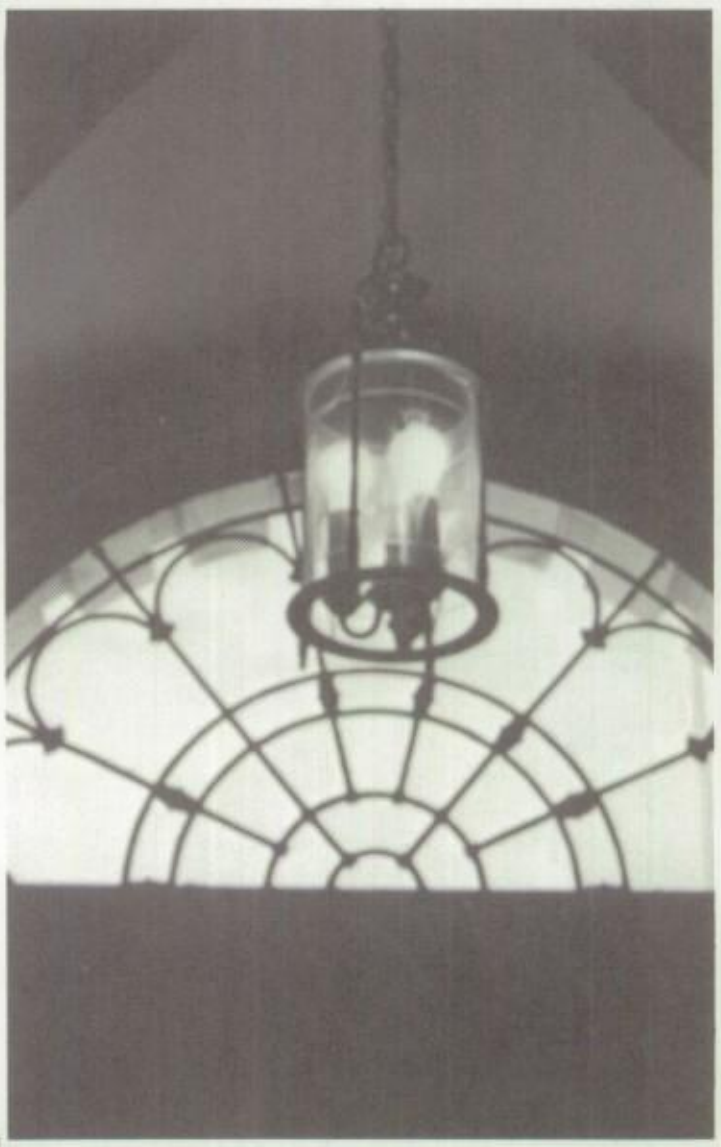
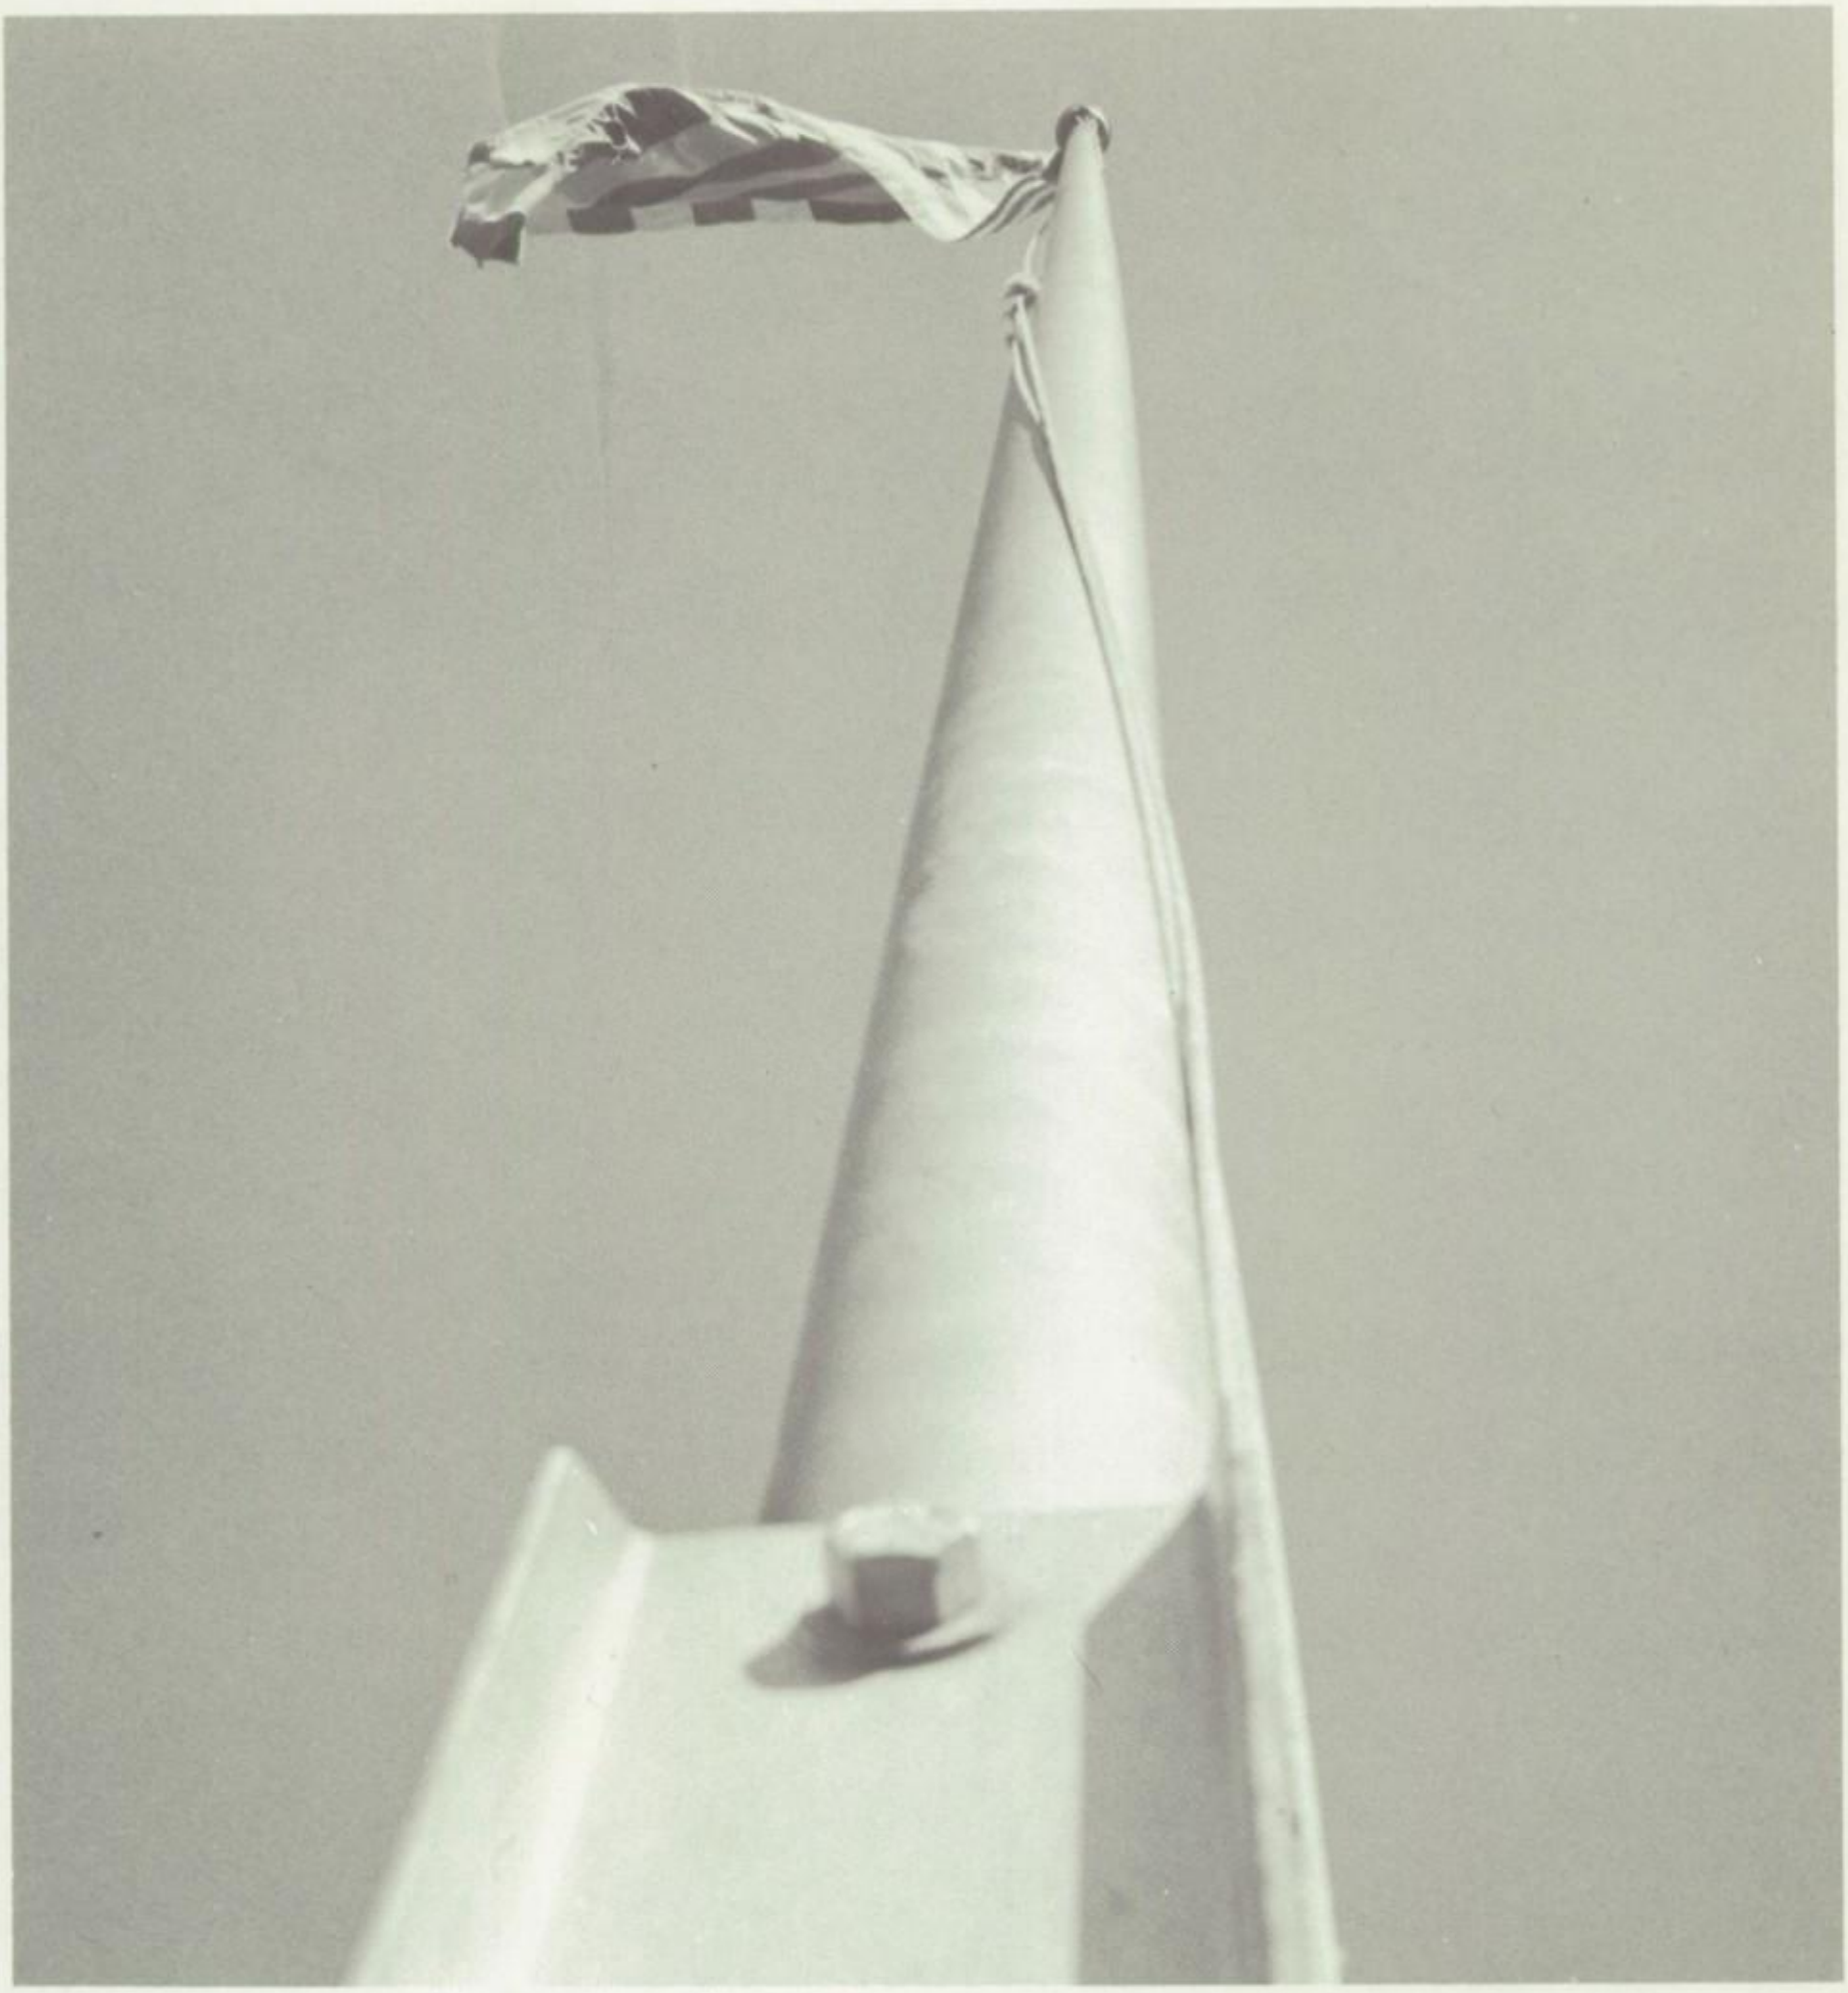
The Class of '68. An illustrious group, without a doubt. But what would our class be without our school?

Caz has played the major role in our lives. The school. Hard work. Good play. All these have helped to light the light of learning.





Who can forget the games we won. Or almost won. Our trials. Our errors. Our successes. So many things have played a part. Holmes. Maple. The unconquerable Summit. Whiskey sour and flower power. Trademarks of the hour; but of the day?

A splendid time was guaranteed for all. One truth underlies all of our memories. We are walking a path with one end in the future. The almighty One Way Street. Some look straight ahead. Others make detours. But as we follow this path from beginning to end, we are learning how to live.

Our traditional share in the League championship was once more retained by the Lakers. Mr. Volo did his usual excellent job in shaping a first place team, as the scores below indicate. After a close game with Frankfort, the Lakers created a very impressive record, until the last game, a hard fought and scoreless tie with V.V.S. This team is truly one to be remembered in our football history.

A foreign exchange student always provides a great deal of entertainment and knowledge. Peter Walton, from Australia, has certainly given us this and much more. He will be remembered by all of us for his intelligence, good looks, and keen wit. It has certainly been a privilege for us to have provided a home for someone who has taken such an interest in our school and our town.

Sue Wallace was chosen from our school for the summer program of the AFS. She spent the summer at the island of Barbados, in the Carribean. Apparently, from what we can find out, she had a great time consisting of getting a beautiful tan, watching colorful sunsets and generally having a riot. The only problem was that she had a far too short time there and she longs to return, which I'm sure she will do someday.

A WORD FROM YOUR EDITORS:

Sue Judd and Phil Owens, Editors

The efforts of this staff have not been aimed at producing the common yearbook. We have striven to achieve an expression of character and thinking never before seen in Owahgena, for after all, a yearbook shows a collection of people, not merely faces. The ideal yearbook would represent not only the image of each individual, but also the ideas and philosophy of that person. Such a publication, however, would require a limitless budget, which we, unfortunately, do not possess. We at Owahgena are indeed grateful for our available financial support, and we feel that the best has been made of our resources, although, at times, ideal artistic value had to be sacrificed due to lack of space. A growing school needs a growing yearbook, and it is our hope that next year's staff, lead by Becky Allen and Dave Dunne, will keep this in mind as they work to produce an even more memorable edition of Owahgena.

OUR THANKS TO:

Mrs. Golden, for her capable advice on some matters and her patient consent on others;

Mr. Cliff Van Dervort, for the excellent photography found throughout this book;

Mr. Delmar King, for his photographic reproduction of significant figures; and finally, Mr. Thomas Blair, for his deeply appreciated enlightenment of our staff.

Jerry
